

ALEXIS GLICK

(Anchor & Vice President of Business News)

Alexis Glick is an anchor and Vice President of Business News for FOX Business Network (FBN). She joined FOX News as the Director of Business News in the fall of 2006 and was named Vice President of Business News in September 2007. Glick anchors Money for Breakfast (7–9 am EST), an all-encompassing morning show bringing together up-to-the-minute business headlines with a variety of other topics. Glick also anchors Opening Bell (9-10 am EST).

Prior to joining FOX, Glick served as a correspondent for the NBC's national morning show The Today Show, where she co-anchored the third hour of the program. Before joining NBC, she was the senior trading correspondent for CNBC and reported from the floor of the New York Stock Exchange for CNBC's Squawk Box. While at CNBC, Glick also contributed to Street Signs and Closing Bell.

Earlier in her career, Glick was an Executive Director at Morgan Stanley where she headed the New York Stock Exchange Floor Operations. A member of the New York Stock Exchange since 2002, she was the first and youngest woman to manage such an operation for a bulge bracket firm, and served as one of its top producers on the Listed Equity Trading Desk. She began her career as an analyst at Goldman Sachs in the Equities Division

Glick is a graduate of Columbia University, where she now serves as a member of the Board of Directors of the College Alumni Association.