

PRESIDENTS AND CHAIRMEN OF THE NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

During the 19th century and into the 20th century, the chief executive officer of the NYSE was the president, an unsalaried position held by a member of the Exchange.

When the Exchange was reorganized in 1938, the presidency became a full-time, salaried office. The president was the chief executive officer, responsible for the management and administration of the Exchange. The chairman presided at meetings of the Board of Governors and was a member of the Exchange.

After another reorganization in 1972, the chairman of the Board of Directors became the full-time salaried chief executive officer of the Exchange.

In 2003 the Exchange reorganized its governing structure again, separating the offices of Chairman and Chief Executive Officer.

On March 7, 2006, the NYSE Group, a for-profit, publicly-owned company, was formed out of the merger of the New York Stock Exchange and Archipelago Holdings, Inc.

NYSE Euronext was established on April 4, 2007, by the merger of the NYSE Group and Euronext N.V.
